Alaska Presidential District Caucuses will be held April 10-14.

Democrats throughout the state will caucus the second week in April to cast their votes for the Democratic nominee for President of the United States. The Democratic Presidential District Caucuses are the first step in the journey to the Democratic National Convention (DNC) in Charlotte.

Besides electing delegates to the State Convention in May, the Presidential District Caucuses offer the opportunity to propose resolutions, party plan changes, and party platform changes (Note: we are asking that the text of changes for resolutions , the party platform , and party plan be submitted in a word document in electronic format).

"The 2012 Democratic Presidential District Caucuses aren't about political ritual or simply re-nominating the President, it's about Americans coming together to commit ourselves and our country to a path that creates more opportunity," said Patti Higgins, chair of the Alaska Democratic Party. "Success depends on involvement at the grassroots and we invite everyone to take part."
